The Salvation Army will now operate a beautiful new facility that will accommodate up to 68 people, a vital and much needed addition to the city. Our friend and supporter, Mr. Jim Amos, served as the project's construction manager and headed an eight to ten year effort to bring this service to Clarksville.

In recognition of Jim's dedication and commitment to see this vision through to completion, the facility was named the James Amos Emergency Shelter – a well deserved and appropriate tribute! T. W. Frierson Contractor, Inc. was one of many companies who contributed volunteer services and/or monetary contributions to this successful undertaking. Ben Eberle was our primary contact for Jim throughout the construction period and Jim expressed his personal thanks to Ben for his good work and assistance.

Jeff Smith and crew laid out the bldg footings, tied and placed all steel and poured concrete for footings. All material was provided by others.
